PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY SAMUEL SNOWDEN, ROYAL-STREET, ALEXANDRIA.

Vol. XIX.]

MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 2, 1818.

[No. 5373.]

American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experience, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings: the necessity of supporting public credit at home: of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition. The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

Mr. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline.—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; and when it shall be completed, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by Mr. Amies. The ink shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials. The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; and the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Biann. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splendid edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splendid Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A Legislator for its Security! A Magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscriptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed.—It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.

Advertisement.
ABSCONDED from the subscriber's service, on Saturday night the 15th inst. Negro woman TREACE or TREACY—she is five feet two or three inches high, about 30 years of age, of a very dark complexion, and when particularly examined is very apt to confound herself.—It is deemed unnecessary to mention her clothing, as she has all of them with her, and being extremely artful, she no doubt will change them and endeavor to pass for a free woman. She is well acquainted in Charles county, Prince George's, Alexandria and the City, as about 5 years ago she made her escape, and was 6 or 7 months about the Lower Ferry, leading to Alexandria, and from thence to Washington City, where she acquired an extensive acquaintance among the Negroes belonging to John Brent, esq.; and the greater part of said Negroes belong now to William and Robert Brent, esqrs. and Mr. Dudley Diggs. Negro Treace has a scar on the back part of her neck, occasioned by a season put for the benefit of her eyes, which are very weak at this time. I will give 10 dollars if taken in the county and secured in jail, or if out of the county and secured as aforesaid, so that I get her again, 25 dollars, and all reasonable charges paid if brought home. All persons are forewarned harboring or employing said Negro at their peril, as the law will be rigorously put in force against any offender.

A few days previous to his leaving Fort Washington he took the liberty of borrowing, in the name of Mr. John Colagen, from a lady at that place 15 dollars, which was not known till after he left it; and immediately after he was discharged, and paid off, he forged two checks in the name of the Subscriber, on the Farmers' Bank of Alexandria, one of which he procured the money for at the Bank, and the other he passed to a person in Alexandria, which was detected and refused.—Previous to his coming to Fort Washington, he worked in the City of Washington, where he said he intended to work again; but it is probable he has not stopped so near the theatre of his villainy. For the Gazette.

TATTLING.

Persons of busy curiosity, loquacity in conversation, and withal of volatile dispositions, must not be offended should we declare our text applies to them; which too frequently, and indeed ever eventuates in ingrafting in their minds the principles and vices attributed to slander.

A line of demarcation can indeed scarcely be drawn betwixt the characters of tattler and slanderer. It may be argued that no mischievous intentions influence the tale bearer, more especially as tatters are generally of the softer sex, whose mild and placid natures forbid so ungenerous an idea, whilst the slanderer, generally found among the masculine race, darts his innuendoes against an innocent victim, to gratify a malicious revenge. We, however, can discover no absolute difference in the characters, should we judge cases by the effects; and perhaps there is more real misery heaped upon mankind by the weak and mischievous vice of gossiping, than the free and deliberate attacks of slander.

Lucretia, an antiquated maiden, of liberal education, fine talents, once beautiful, and at present tolerably handsome, notwithstanding the wrinkles which ungenerous time has furrowed in her cheek, and very witty, might now have been a respectable matron, a useful mother, and an affectionate friend, were she not early initiated into folly, and become an arrant tattler. Always accustomed, from a tender age, to a numerous association of the ton, she neglected after being freed from the duties of a tutor, the cultivation of an understanding which nature intended should soar above the commonality of her sex. She early became a votary to fashion, whose idle charms absorbed her intellect, and caused her to despise every thing but the fulsome gratification of displaying a pretty person, and an elegant address, to her numerous and foppish admirers. From being accustomed to flattery, she early learned to flatter, and this necessarily obliged her to collect an abundance of small talk, which would enable her to hold forth lengthily, and say a great deal about nothing. In parties and large companies, Lucretia, although on the sour side of forty, appears even now to advantage. Her false ringlets, rouged cheeks, and laced person, together with a careless and volatile manner, has the appearance of coquette. Delighted at making conquests, and catching a new beau in her train, she was wont to amuse each admirer with a reciprocal attachment—but in the true spirit of a coquette, “leaves the wretch to weep” at the fickleness of woman’s love—which too often, under the garb of simplicity, innocence and artlessness, hides the deformity of a perjured heart, a guilty conscience, and the artful hypocrite.

Lucretia, from the delight of hearing the sweet melody of her voice, to indulge in her favorite propensity, has frequently recourse to the affairs of her acquaintance. Any anecdote which by the aid of a little embellishment will create a laugh, and afford subject for conversation, she seizes with avidity, and the incident loses nothing in detail from her luxuriant and inventive imagination. Perhaps, to appear witty, the tale is so much distorted, that if a person acquainted with the circumstance as it really occurred, should hear it related, decorated with the imposing eloquence of Lucretia, would never conceive that what he had heard and what he was listening to had any connexion whatever. Perhaps she will undertake to repeat a conversation, but will be forgetting some circumstances, and adding others, give entirely a new turn to the fact—and yet it is done in so careless and lively a manner that no one would presume to attribute to the relater any mischievous motive. But in this manner Lucretia, as well as other tatters, materially injure the characters of their best friends and most intimate associates, as well as other innocent persons, who, perhaps, they have never known or seen, in a more serious and lasting manner than the cool malicious and inveterate attacks of the most determined slanderer.

Tattling sways her sceptre through every rank and grade in society, and usually attracts in her train the demons of coquetry, falsehood, deception and hypocrisy. She ever haunts the temple of hymen, ready to sound the offering at its altars—and few, indeed, of our matrimonial alliances are formed, without the publication of the anticipated wedding through her busy agency. How frequently does the gossip, with her “thousand tongues,” circulate thro’ town or country the absolute engagement of Mr. — and Miss —, and their positive marriage on the next Thursday, or Thursday week, when perhaps the persons themselves had never dreamed of the connexion, much less determined on its consummation—and hence we often find a breach of friendship and intimacy occasioned between families from no other cause than these “franks of rumor.”

Instances of this kind come under the observation of every one, and perhaps were less credit attached to tales of the tattler, this disgusting vice would soon sink into insignificance. ORLANDO.

Notice to the widows and minor children of deceased soldiers.

The widows and minor children of soldiers that died in the service of the United States, during the late war, are informed, that the law giving them commutation, or five years' half-pay pension, in lieu of land, expires on the sixteenth day of February next, (1819.) Those persons that are entitled to the pension, amounting to 240 dollars, that do not apply for it before that period, will probably be for ever after debarred from obtaining it. This notice, which is given by an agent in one of the northern states, in the shape of an advertisement to claimants, inviting their application to him, we publish gratuitously; reminding them, at the same time, that no agency is necessary in the case. Claimants who are ignorant of the mode of transacting the business, may avail themselves of the aid of the Representatives of their respective districts in Congress, who will take pleasure in affording it, at the approaching session, to make the necessary application, &c. at the public offices. Extract of a letter received from Cadiz, under date of the 30th August last.

I am not able to tell you any thing of importance in relation to measures adopted by our government in the present momentous circumstances, but that the grand expedition for South America, is repairing with the greatest possible activity: many troops are in motion from several points of the kingdom to the environs of this city and the isle of Leon, and sundry men of war from Mahon, Carthage, and Ferrol, are hourly expected here to join the squadron almost ready at this port. It is considered to be an expedition destined to carry into execution a most important plan agreed on and supported by the Allied Powers.

We learn by the last letters from Madrid, that our differences with the United States will be promptly settled, and both Florida ceded to them, if they come to a final settlement of all the points in controversy between the two governments, on such terms as reason and good faith require.

As to our friend Mr. Herkies, with whom you have been well acquainted, during his residence in the United States, he is now appointed Charge d' Affairs near the King of Netherlands; and I believe he will sail, before he goes to that country, for the United States, to take with him his wife, the eldest daughter of our minister there, the Chevalier de Onis. If it be so, I will transmit to you by his hands the papers you want, &c.

A NEW SPECIES OF KIDNAPPING.

It is stated in the Augusta Chronicle of the 17th inst. that an emigrant from South Carolina to the Alabama Territory, attended the Clerk's Office at Augusta, in conformity with a law of Georgia, and registered a number of slaves he was carrying with him to his place of destination. “Upon examination, says the Chronicle, it was discovered that a white child, about 3 years of age, was included in his return of slaves to the Clerk's Office. This circumstance excited considerable interest, and the cavalcade of the emigrant was immediately surrounded by a crowd of eager and inquiring citizens; the child was exhibited to them—the conformation of its system—the pure and eloquent blood which spoke through its fine complexion—left no doubt of its origin, and involuntarily created a fellow sympathy in its behalf. The man was taken before a magistrate, where he entered a recognizance for his appearance at our next Superior Court. The child was committed to the care of a gentleman in this place, with whom it will remain until the result of a judicial investigation.”

From the Richmond Patriot, Oct. 28.

Pursuant to his sentence, Robert Carlton alias Gibson, yesterday suffered the punishment of DEATH, by hanging—for the murder of John Peatros, in July, 1817. The execution took place near the Penitentiary, and was attended by a greater number of persons than ever before assembled on any occasion near this city. Every thing was conducted in the most orderly manner, and the spectators seemed to feel the awfulness of the scene.

The prisoner was taken from the prison about 11 o'clock, in a waggon, sitting on his coffin, attended by the Rev. Messrs. Courtney and Bryce, and guarded by a detachment of the City Guard. On arriving at the gallows, Mr. Bryce addressed the spectators, and was followed by Mr. Courtney, who also sang and prayed, in which the prisoner and some of the spectators joined; after which the prisoner addressed himself to the crowd, at first in a feeble tone; but afterwards with considerable animation. The amount of what he said is—that he was innocent of the crime for which he was about to suffer; that he had been a great sinner, but had never murdered any one, or wished to do it; that he had made his peace with God, and expected to die happy, and be saved by faith in Christ: that he hoped the day of his death might long be remembered by many sinners present as the day on which they should set out to seek the Lord, which he strongly recommended to them to do: that he was not justly condemned; that there was no positive proof against him, and that he ought not to have been condemned on circumstantial evidence: that had he been a rich man, and given 1,000 dollars to lawyers, they would have cleared him, as they had several persons near here; against some of whom positive evidence had been adduced; and in particular alluded to the case of King, &c. At about 20 minutes past 2, the rope was fastened to the gallows, the prisoner standing up erect; he then shook hands with the sheriff and assistant—bid all farewell—the handkerchief was drawn over his face—for a few moments he stood erect, motionless, and appeared to be in deep meditation, then seeming to lose his strength, fell forward as tho' he fainted—the waggon was driven from under him, and he died without a struggle.

Robert Carlton was born in King & Queen county, Virginia, in 1796, was by profession a bricklayer, and was in the 36th regt. U. S. infantry during the latter part of the late war; after which he served one year in the Virginia penitentiary, for stealing a shawl.

Since his condemnation, he has given an interesting history of his life, which is now in press.

Notwithstanding the protestations he made of his innocence, we must continue to believe Robert Carlton guilty of the murder for which he has suffered. Circumstantial evidence could not be stronger than it was against him.

FROM LAGUIRA.

Extract of a letter dated Lagaira, Sept 26th per brig Warrior, arrived at New-York.

A few days ago an attack was made on this place by several privateers—a few shots from the batteries made them sheer off. Our flotilla is under way in chase of them.

General Morillo arrived at Caracas on the 7th inst. after reviewing the army, 10,000 strong, infantry and cavalry, independent of the garrisons. The next campaign will be opened soon with every prospect of success. Markets dull—produce none.

[Philadelphia Gazette.]

Copy of the sentence of a naval court martial, held on board the United States ship Washington, in New-York, for the trial of lieutenant Benjamin Cooper, of the U. S. navy, charged with cruelty and oppression.

“The evidence being read by the judge advocate, and the court having maturely and seriously considered the whole, are of opinion that lieutenant Benjamin Cooper is not guilty of the charge and specification. The judgment of the court, therefore, is, that he is honorably acquitted therefrom.”

“The court takes this opportunity to express its decided disapprobation of the spirit of combination to injure their superior officer, evinced by the persons who signed the letter of the 29th of August last, directed to capt. John D. Henley; and particularly to recommend the dismissal of Wm. P. Taylor from the service of the United States, for his agency in producing this injurious and unworthy combination;—and, further respectfully to suggest to the consideration of the Navy Department the propriety of expressing its disapprobation of combinations such as this, which tend to insubordination, and are destructive to the discipline of the naval service of the United States.”

ORIENTAL APOLOGUE... BY WM. BELLOE, ESQ.

The Sultan and his Vizier; or the Sultan who had received a blow.

A certain prince, who, attended by his vizier, was accustomed to take the rounds of his city, met one evening at the entrance of a bazaar a person of respectable appearance: the prince politely saluted him. The stranger, who was near the door of his house, returned the salutation and said, “I entreat you, and the person who is with you, to enter into my house; be so kind, sir, to accept of a hearty invitation to my supper.” The prince and his vizier entered without hesitation. The stranger behaved to them with great politeness, and showed them particular attention. A table was plentifully covered, and supper was soon served up. It consisted of 500 different dishes, and the stranger requested his guests to sit and partake of his entertainment. The prince was struck with the splendor and profusion of the table, and observing that there were no persons present but himself, his vizier and their host, he said, “Sir, you must doubtless have invited other guests?” “No,” (said the master of the house) “I have invited none.” “Why then (said the sultan) this great profusion of victuals? is this consistent with the appearance of a person like you?” On which the stranger gave the prince a violent blow with his fist; a blow bitter than fire; saying to him, “Sir, are you obliged to eat it all? eat what you please, and leave the rest.”

The sultan whispered his vizier, “we are certainly in the wrong: I, by an impertinent question, have provoked this man to strike me: but by Alla, if you do not find some means by which I may properly give him a blow for the one I have received, I will put you to death.” “Sir,” (answered the vizier) you shall to-morrow night invite him to your apartments: you must give him an entertainment in all respects superior to this in splendor and magnificence: if he shall presume to make any observations, you may then return the blow you have now received.” The sultan accordingly followed the advice of his minister, and invited the stranger. The next night the man entered the sultan’s apartments, with a countenance and manner somewhat confused and embarrassed. The sultan, however, encouraged him by the politeness and kindness of his behavior; and after a short interval, supper was called for and the table covered with a thousand dishes. The sultan sat down and invited his guest to take his place; he did so, and in a cool and collected manner said, “God’s will be done; this is indeed what ought to be; may God prosper the plenty of your table; here is a profusion of victuals, but profusion is an excellent thing; it delights the eye before it satisfies the stomach.” He feasted heartily, and afterwards exclaimed by way of grace, “Praise be to the omnipotent God of his people.”

The sultan whispered his vizier, “This will not do; how can I possibly strike a man who expresses himself so wisely? but if you do not find out some way for my giving him a blow before we part, I certainly will kill you.” “My lord,” said the vizier, “when he rises from the table to wash his hands, you shall officiously present yourself to pour out the water for him: if he shall say, ‘By no means, sir, God forbid that you should thus demean yourself, indeed this must not be’—for such an impertinent opposition you may certainly give him such a blow as you think proper; saying at the same time, ‘Pray, sir, am I to be taught by you what I am to do? do you presume to contradict me?’” The sultan promised to do so, and when the stranger rose to wash his hands, the prince eagerly pressed forwards, laid hold of the vessel, and prepared to pour out water on the hands of his guest. “God bless you, sir,” (said the stranger) “I am delighted by your kindness; may God prosper all your undertakings!” After this exclamation, the prince was obliged to pour the water upon the stranger’s hands, but at the same time it evidently appeared that he was inwardly chagrined and angry.

Coffee was now introduced, and the prince again addressing his vizier, “I swear by Alla, if you do not speedily find a remedy for my disquietude, I will order you to be put to instant death; is it not enough that the man has struck me, but that I should also be degraded to the servile office of pouring out water for him to wash?” “Sir,” (answered the vizier,) he will soon be obliged to take his leave, do you be ready with a bamboo in your hand; call one of your youngest slaves, and as the stranger passes, exercise your cane severely upon the back of his guest; should he then say, ‘For God’s sake sir, and for my sake, pardon this poor boy, and do not beat him with such severity; you may then return the blow, and say, ‘Is not this my slave, sir? is not chastisement a necessary part of education? do you presume to contradict me?’”

The sultan again followed the advice of his minister, and was beating the boy when the stranger passed. The stranger as he went along, exclaimed, “sir, you do very right; beat him by all means; chastisement is a very necessary part of education; if the young man should expire in consequence, God has certainly decreed it so.” Upon this the vizier impatiently stepped forward. “For heaven’s sake, sir,” (said he to the stranger) “have compassion, and intercede for this unfortunate boy; surely you cannot be so hard hearted.” Upon this the stranger gave a blow to the vizier, ten times harder than that which he had given to the sultan. “How dare you (said he) presume to interpose in a matter of this kind? is not the boy a slave? is he not kindly educating him?” “Now (said the prince) I forgive you both, as my vizier has fared no better than myself.”

Valuable Land for Sale.

HAVING more land in the tract on which I reside than I can farm to advantage, I will expose to public sale, on the 5th day of NOVEMBER next, if fair, if not the next fair day, eight hundred acres, divided into lots of two hundred acres, each lot has seventy acres in woods, of the cleared land one hundred and fifty acres are in clover, and two hundred in rye and wheat. This land is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and is bounded north and east by Accotink creek, which separates the lower part of it from Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price can be had for grain.—It is as fertile as any land in the county, and is susceptible of improvement, by clover and plaster, as any I have seen. Persons wishing to view it will call on the subscriber, living at Cedar Grove, one mile below Janney's mill.

The terms will be one-third of the purchase money in hand, and the balance in two equal annual payments. The sale will take place at 12 o'clock, on the premises.
EDGAR MCCARTY.
Fairfax co. Va. October 6

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Potomac creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shade and hawking fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaster acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain; being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole, it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary out-house, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvas backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pollock Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

Valuable Property for Sale.
THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county, Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate, and the lands of a general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutritious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; wagon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 180 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—It would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or Clermont for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale this well known and valuable estate, in the vicinity of Alexandria, being distant not more than three miles, commanding a view of the town and of the valley through which the Cameron creek meanders. The domain consists of 380 acres, a large portion of which is bottom land, highly susceptible of improvement; its buildings consist of a large dwelling house containing 12 comfortable apartments and 8 fire places, and of such other buildings as are necessary for the accommodation of a farmer. This estate will be sold altogether or divided to suit purchasers. One third of the purchase money will be required in hand, and the remainder in equal payments of 9 and 18 months.

Valuable Property for Sale.

I WILL sell my property on King, West and Cameron streets, being one acre, or half a square, in fee simple, fronting one hundred and twenty three feet five inches on King street, the same on Cameron street, and three hundred and fifty three feet and two inches on West street. There are erected on said premises, an excellent two story brick dwelling house on West street, with smoke house, stable, carriage house, and every convenience suitable for the accommodation of a respectable family. A large two story brick warehouse, corner of King and West streets, now in the occupation of Thomas Swann, Jr. and another brick warehouse, with dwelling attached, fronting on King street, occupied by George Kincaid. These warehouses are built of the best materials, not surpassed by any in town.—Two brick dwelling houses, fronting on King street, with sufficient room for the erection of other buildings, having every accommodation for families—and a large lot on West and Cameron streets, sufficiently large for the erection of fifteen respectable tenements.

This is a most desirable property for any man of fortune who wishes to improve it, or receive a good interest for his money, and offers advantages equal if not superior to any situation in the town of Alexandria. Likewise, two frame dwelling houses, fronting on King street, adjoining the warehouse occupied by George Kincaid. This property is subject to a small ground rent of thirty dollars and forty one cents per annum. Also, a lot of ground, in fee simple, containing ten and three quarter acres, two miles from town, on the old Leesburg road, near the property of Wm. Robinson, Esq.—This lot is beautifully situated, having a fine view of Alexandria and of the Potomac—is well taken with clover, and is capable of the highest improvement.

The above property will be sold together, or in part, and a liberal credit given to suit purchasers.

Auction & Commission Store.

NATHL. P. BIXBY & CO. respectfully inform their friends and the public generally, that they have taken that large and commodious store formerly occupied by the late Mr. Thomas Robinson, nearly opposite the Union Bank, Bridge-st. where they will transact all kinds of business in the Auction and Commission line; and as they are determined to give their exclusive attention to that business alone, those gentlemen who are disposed to employ them, have the best guarantee that they will be fairly dealt by. They flatter themselves that a punctual, diligent, and correct attention, together with their general knowledge of business, will secure to them at least an equal share of public patronage. Their intention is to avoid, as much as possible, retailing goods at auction. They are now prepared to receive goods of every description, to sell at public or private sale, and will attend to sales of property at any place within the town.

Gone to the Southward or Westward.

A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which, with several letters on her left arm, were made with india ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two weeks ago, by a man of the name of Basset. It is supposed they have gone to the westward: Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempts be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.

American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition. The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper. As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at Yorktown, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and a proper character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman. And to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; & when it shall be completed, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by Mr. Amie. The ink shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials. The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splendid edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splendid Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A Legislator for its Security! A Magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscriptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving.
